

Your consent to being the legal parent

About this form

This form is produced by the Human Fertilisation and Embryology Authority (HFEA), the UK's independent regulator of fertility treatment and human embryo research. For more information about us, visit www.hfea.gov.uk.

- the consequences of withdrawing this consent, and
- how you can make changes to, or withdraw, your consent.
- an opportunity to have counselling.

Who should fill in this form?

Fill in this form if you're:

- not married or in a civil partnership, and
- your partner is receiving treatment using donor sperm, or embryos created outside the body (in vitro) using donor sperm, and
- you wish to be the legal parent of any child born from your partner's treatment.

I'm married/in a civil partnership, what form should I fill in?

If you're married or in a civil partnership and your partner is receiving treatment using donor sperm, you should not complete this form. You will automatically be recognised as the legal parent of any child born from your partner's treatment.

You should, however, complete the: 'Your consent to being registered as the legal parent in the event of your death' (PBR) form to give your consent to being registered as the legal parent of any child born from your partner's treatment in the unfortunate event that you died before embryo transfer took place. While this is something you may prefer not to think about, it's important that you do to ensure you have everything covered from a legal perspective if this were to happen.

What do I need to know before filling in this form?

Before you fill in this form you should be certain that your clinic has given you all the relevant information you need to make fully informed decisions. This includes:

- information about:
 - the different options set out in this form
 - the implications of giving your consent

If you're unsure, or think that you have not been given all of this information, please speak to your clinic. There is a declaration at the end of this form which you must sign to confirm you have received this information. If you do not receive this information before filling in this form, your consent may be invalid.

If you are unable to complete this form because of physical illness, injury or disability you may direct someone else to complete and sign it for you. However, if you are consenting to being registered as the legal parent of any child born as a result of treatment after your death (see section 4.1), you must sign the form yourself.

Why do I have to fill in this form?

If you're not married or in a civil partnership, by law (the Human Fertilisation and Embryology Act 2008), you can be the legal parent of any child born from your partner's treatment – as long as both you and your partner give your written consent to this by completing this form. You must do this before sperm, egg or embryo transfer.

You must also give your written consent if you would like to be registered as the legal parent of any child born from your partner's treatment if you were to die. This form allows you to do this as well.

When filling in this form, make sure you sign the declaration on every page to confirm that you have read the page and fully agree with the consent and information given. When you have completed the form you may request a copy of it from your clinic.

4 In the event of your death continued

4.1 Do you consent to embryos created before your death being transferred to your partner after your death, and to being registered as the legal parent of any child born from your partner's treatment after your death (ie, posthumous birth registration)?

By ticking yes, you consent to the following:

- I consent to my name, place of birth and occupation being entered on the register of births as the legal parent of any child born from my partner's treatment.
The register is kept under the Birth and Deaths Registration Act 1953, or the Births and Deaths Registration (Northern Ireland) Order 1976, or the Registration of Births, Deaths and Marriages (Scotland) Act 1965.
- I also consent to my information (relating to my partner's treatment) being disclosed to one of the following registrars:
 - the Registrar General for England and Wales
 - the Registrar General for Scotland
 - the Registrar for Northern Ireland.

Please note that being recorded in the register of births as the legal parent of a child born from your partner's treatment does not transfer any inheritance or other legal rights to the child.
